

JFK Feels Tax Cut Now May Be Helpful

By WHITNEY SHOEMAKER
WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy says he is giving very serious consideration to urging Congress to pass a tax cut. And he feels Congress should think hard about it too.

But, he told his news conference Thursday, the decision whether taxes should be reduced now or next year will depend on the economy's health as reflected by basic economic indicators.

Kennedy said he and his advisers will be watching these indicators closely "in the next months."

"If we feel that the situation in the economy warrants a tax cut, then, of course, we would recommend it," he said.

For the present, said Kennedy, he will keep to his plan for tax reductions and other revisions next year.

He emphasized, however, that he and Congress should pay heed to recommendations from such "inverse quarters as the U.S. Chamber of Commerce and the F.L.CIO for an early tax reduction."

"But the basic question will be to try to make an analysis as to the health of the economy over the next months," he added, "and whether '63 is the appropriate time or now."

In the meantime, he said, the administration will press for congressional action on present economic legislation, including the bill to give tax credit for plant and machine modernization and to give anti-inflation measures to give him standby authority to cut taxes and launch a public works program.

The President reiterated his fourth of July call for a declaration of interdependence with a tilted Europe—when Europe becomes one great organization, to advance all mankind.

"We would not want this to be a rich man's club while the rest of the world gets poorer," Kennedy said. "We want the benefits of this kind of union to be shared."

Would this lead to some kind of political union between the United States and Europe?

It depends on how you define political, Kennedy said. North Atlantic allies already have political commitments to each other, he said, and these may take on "a more intimate form."

Inevitably, homegrown politics and Democratic administration's relations with business came up in the half-hour conference, Kennedy said "an awful lot of businessmen" have supported the Democratic party, even though he agreed his party "is not the party of business." Asked what he thought of former President Dwight D. Eisenhower's description of business, Kennedy replied with amusement:

"Well, I think, as I said, I dislike disagreeing with President Eisenhower, and so I won't in this case."

Faulkner, Author, Dies at Age of 64

OXFORD, Miss. (AP) — Nobel prize winning author William L. Faulkner, who made the fictional Mississippi county of Yoknapatawpha known throughout the world, died today.

The 64 year old author died of a heart attack at a hospital in Oxford. He returned here some weeks ago from the University of Virginia where he had spent much of his recent years as a lecturer in American literature.

This Woman Carries Lots of Money

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A white woman carrying a small fortune in stocks and cash told police she tried to donate $11,427 to the Black Muslim sect Thursday night but failed.

Helen Herman, 52, who gave a Santa Monica address and talked of having once lived in Chicago, was taken to Central Receiving Hospital and later was transferred to General Hospital for observation.

Officers quoted her as saying she walked up to the Temple of Islam and told three men standing outside: "I want to give you some money to help kill the white people."

The officers said she was ignored. Eventually, she walked around the corner to a private residence and knocked on the door.

When Cora Weaver opened the door, Mrs. Herman walked in without a word, stroled through the living room and kitchen into a large closet.

Police said it took four patrolmen to remove her from the house. During the struggle, one of Mrs. Herman's two handbags burst open and showered the officers with $100 bills.

At the Receiving Hospital, attendants said they found 49 shares of blue chip stock valued at $30,040 sewed into the woman's undergarments.

Investigators said 489 shares had been signed and were negotiable.

"When I found out we were all going to die, I started signing the stocks and cashing in as many as I could," she told doctors.

"But they just kept coming in the mail. So I left Chicago."

Big Diamond Found at Murfreesboro

MURFREESBORO, Ark. (AP)—A 4.39 carat diamond was picked up Thursday at the Crater of Diamonds by E. W. Goode of Urbana, Ohio.

The diamond, estimated worth about $3,000, is the third sizable stone found by Goode. Howard Miller, who operates the crater, said the diamond ranks 10th or 12th in size among stones found at the crater.

Goode has previously picked up a brown diamond weighing 5.13 carats and a white diamond of 4.85 carats. In 1961 he found a smaller stone of 2.65 carats.

The Star of Arkansas, largest diamond to come from the crater, was found in 1956 by Mrs. A. L. Parker of Dallas, Tex. It weighed 15.35 carats. She has been offered $85,000 for gems cut from the stone.

Goode does not have a special technique for finding diamonds, Miller said. "He just takes a little stick and scratches around in the dirt."

Miller added, "A lot of people always follow him."

Bulletin

By ANDREW BOROWIEC
ALGIERS (AP) — The beleaguered Algerian Nationalist government announced today an invasion of its territory by Moroccan troops.

Spokesman for the regime of Premier Youssef Ben Khedda said Moroccan infantrymen occupied the post of Saf-Saf, 10 miles inside Algerian territory. There were indications a number of other points also were seized.

A concentration of Moroccan troops in the vital Sahara trading center of Colomb Bechar was announced. Colomb Bechar and adjacent areas are claimed by Moroccan Nationalists.

Shooting broke out again in Oran and panic swept the European region of the city. Authorities promptly imposed a curfew to prevent renewal of Thursday's bloodbath.

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — J. E. Wolfe of Chicago, chief spokesman for the nation's railroads, said today the railroads plan to put labor economies into effect as soon as possible.

His statement came after the heads of five railroad unions in Cleveland rejected a government offer to arbitrate the deadlocked dispute over the number of men to operate the nation's trains.

Convicted Spy Delays Return

LONDON (AP)—Spy Dr. Robert Soblen, who tried to kill himself rather than go into an American prison for life, today won at least a 10-day delay in any attempt to return him to the United States.

A high court judge issued a writ of habeas corpus to give Soblen, now in a London hospital, a hearing before he can be moved out of Britain. The court hearing was fixed for July 1.

The New York psychiatrist, 62, who was convicted of spying for the Soviet Union, stabbed himself with a steak knife while being flown from Israel to the United States last weekend.

He was taken off the plane at London Airport and rushed to Hillingdon Hospital.

Two of Soblen's lawyers, Elwyn Jones and Peter Solomon, went to the home of Justice Maccarta in suburban St. John's Wood and obtained a writ to block attempts to move him.

The judge's action is believed to be unprecedented in British legal history. Officially, Soblen has not been admitted to Britain. His status is regarded by the home office as in transit, a move designed to avoid involved deportation proceedings.

Soblen jumped $100,000 bail and fled to Israel last week on a forged Canadian passport.

Paroles to 68

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Paroles were issued to 68 convicts Thursday by the state Board of Pardons and Parole. Executive clemency was recommended for four others. Parole Director W. P. Ball said requests of 20 convicts were rejected. The majority of the paroled men will be released Saturday, he said.

Secret Army Officer Is Executed

PARIS (AP)—Roger Degueudre, condemned for commanding Secret Army Organization killers in Algeria, was executed by a firing squad at dawn today as he was singing the French national anthem.

Degueudre, 37, a former lieutenant in the Foreign Legion who deserted to join the secret army, clasped a French flag to his chest as he was led to the execution wall at a fort on the outskirts of Paris.

As the firing squad leveled rifles, Degueudre cried out "Vive La France!" Then he started singing the "Marseillaise." The rifle burst cut the words.

Degueudre's defense attorney, Jean-Louis Tixier-Vignancourt, who was required by law to be present at today's execution, told reporters afterward:

"This was an unprecedented chronology. It went like this:

"Just after the shots of the firing squad, the coup de grace was given. The firing squad left. I went up to the stake and I noticed that Degueudre was breathing deeply."

"He's not dead," I told a colonel who was there.

"Those are the spasms of the death agony," the colonel replied.

"Are you a doctor?" I asked. At that moment an adjutant gave a second coup de grace. I went up again and Degueudre was still breathing and suffering enormously. Finally, a physician came, after seven minutes. Then the adjutant three times tried to give a new coup de grace, but each of the three times the bullets missed. He had to go get another revolver and it was not until 11 minutes after the shots of the firing squad that the final coup de grace was given."

French officials said they had no information to confirm the statement.

Wasp Sting Fatal at Lewisville

LEWISVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Thorald M. Black, 58, of Stamps died in a Lewisville hospital Thursday about 45 minutes after he was stung by a wasp while mending a fence at his home.

An attending physician said the sting was the direct cause of death.

Black, a partner in an automobile agency, was a member of the Stamps City Council and last year he served as president of the Lafayette County Fair Association.

Survivors include his wife, a son, Henry Black of Stamps; his mother, Mrs. G. H. Black of Patmos; five sisters, Mrs. Lynn Jones, Mrs. Erie Hollis and Vonnelle Black of Patmos, Mrs. Alvin Gordon of Hope and Mrs. Franklin Adams of Texarkana.

Services will be held at Smith Funeral Home, Stamps, at 10 a.m. Saturday. Burial will be in Memory Garden of Hope.

They are Joe Roberts, head of the Fayetteville high school science department, and Edward White, teacher at Hope.

Full Probe of Sugar Lobby Tactics Voted

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Foreign Relations Committee voted today to institute a full-scale investigation into efforts by lobbyists for foreign governments to influence United States policies.

The inquiry would take in—but also go beyond—the ground to be covered in a subcommittee study of the efforts of foreign agents in connection with this year's sugar legislation.

Congressional figures indicate sugar lobbyists were paid more than $500,000 by their foreign government clients, and President Kennedy at his news conference Thursday called their activities "unfortunate."

Chairman J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., of the Foreign Relations Committee said that in addition to the sugar bill operations the new study would go into attempts to pressure Congress into increased foreign aid allotments and other activities by nondiplomatic personnel.

By voice vote the committee unanimously approved a resolution by Fulbright calling money for the investigation.

Approval by the Senate itself would be required.

The more narrowly aimed Judiciary investigation was announced Thursday.

The investigation is expected to start in a few days and will be headed by Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn. He was designated by Sen. James O. Eastland, D-Miss., chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee, which handles legislation dealing with registration of foreign agents.

Allocation of foreign quotas was a hotly contested issue as the complicated sugar bill made its way through Congress. The compromise that finally passed the Senate and House and awaits Kennedy's signature includes specific quotas for 24 foreign countries.

The Senate Finance Committee has developed data that some lobbyists got up to $50,000 a year and fees as high as 50 cents a ton for the quotas they obtained for their foreign government clients.

Committee members did not contend there was anything illegal about the lobbying. Under the law, persons acting in behalf of foreign interests must register with the Department of Justice.

Asked at his news conference Thursday about the sugar lobbyists, Kennedy commented: "I think it is an unfortunate situation when men are paid large fees by foreign governments to secure quotas, and where, in some cases, there are contingency fees. For every ton of sugar they get allocated to their country they secure a payment of so much."

300 More Teachers

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The addition of about 300 teachers to the state's public school system this fall was predicted Thursday by Education Commissioner Arch W. Ford. Ford said the addition will bring the teaching force to a record high of 16,000.

Amendments, Act Beat Deadline

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The Secretary of State's office said Thursday five proposed constitutional amendments and one initiated act had been submitted by the July 5 deadline.

Three of the amendments were proposed by the 1961 legislature, one by the Arkansas Education Association and one by a mixed group. The AEA also submitted the initiated act.

D. D. Glover Jr., chief deputy secretary of state, said an amendment proposed by the state Civil Defense office was not submitted in time. That amendment would have outlined procedures for a succession of state officers in event of emergency.

The CD office said time did not allow its workers to secure the number of signatures necessary for qualifications.

The three legislative amendments were:

Amendment 50, authorizing municipalities more leeway in taxing.

Amendment 51, insuring public school education for those not attending racially integrated classes, and Amendment 52, authorizing salary increases for state and county public officials.

Proposals of the AEA were: Amendment 53, insuring the financial stability of the state teacher retirement system, and an initiated act setting a 50% floor under state revenues for public school purposes.

Amendment 54, permitting the use of voting machines in elections, was submitted by a number of civic organizations through a committee.

Farm Weather Funds

WASHINGTON (AP)—Funds to pay for special weather service for northwest Arkansas farmers are being sought by Rep. James W. Trimble, D-Ark. Trimble told a House Appropriations Subcommittee Thursday the farmers of that area urgently need access to weather information to aid in protecting crops and the poultry industry. Cost of the service, from Fayetteville, he said, would be $12,000. Farmers now have to call Fort Smith for information, he said.

Farmer Is Denied Rice Increase

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service has denied rice farmer James Weir of Dermott increases in his 192 rice and cotton allotments.

A review committee of the increases in his 1962 rice and cotton allotment and a five acre cotton allotment previously assigned Weir.

The farmer has until July 17 to appeal the decision.

Weir's 995-acre farm was sold at auction by the government April 17 to satisfy a $16,972 judgment against him for overplanting. He has continued to farm the land.

A $10,244 judgment was issued against Weir last week for overplanting his 1960 acreage and a lawsuit to collect a $25,891 penalty on his 1961 crop is pending.

Gov. Comes to Defense of Administration

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Gov. Orval E. Faubus got into the thick of the Arkansas gubernatorial campaign Thursday night with vigorous defense of his administration and answers to attacks by opponents in during July 4th speeches and earlier.

Faubus appeared on two television stations in Little Rock. Dale Alford was in Batesville, Sid McMath addressed a group of Jackson County businessmen.

Kenneth Coffelt visited north Arkansas counties and Vernon Whitlen campaigned from Conway to Rogers. David A. Cox did not release his itinerary.

Faubus began his speech with an answer to charges of low-teacher pay.

He said state Education Commissioner Arch W. Ford had sent him a letter saying "about 2,000 persons have been added by local school boards" during his administration.

The average teacher pay last year was $3,614, Faubus said.

"If we had the same number of teachers we had in 1955, the average teacher salary would be $4,000 annually."

The governor denied that J. L. Bland, Employment Security Division director, paid $50,000 to land to build an ESD office in Searcy.

Alford repeated charges at Batesville Thursday evening that an armory worth $100,000 was sold to Highway Commissioner Truman Baker in 1958 for $35,100, then the ESD paid a high price for land to build an office.

"Mr. Bland did not pay $50,000, he paid $11,000," Faubus said. He said Alford could have checked county records to verify the sale price and that the sale had to be approved by federal authorities because the ESD receives federal money.

Answering charges by several opponents that state funds are lying idle when they could be earning interest, Faubus said, "It would be calamitous to put all state money in banks to earn interest, because money is needed to run the various state commitments."

He added, "We invest funds we do not have to use, and the rest must be used to pay road contracts, welfare payments, schools, colleges, sanatoriums and state employees."

Faubus accused McMath of misstating facts and figures in his criticism of the Public Service Commission and said that under McMath liquor and beer permits increased from 3,039 to 3,490. Faubus said during his administration they have declined from 3,197 to 2,400.

McMath has been one of several opponents of Faubus to be charged that the governor is controlled by liquor, gambling and utility interests.

"Under McMath," Faubus said, "utilities were assessed at $103 million and under my administration they are assessed at $185 million."

At Batesville, Allford also repudiated his demand that Faubus

Huge Cloud of Dust Spirals 30,000 Feet

By RALPH DIGHTON

CAMP MERCURY, Nev. (AP)—The mightiest nuclear blast yet fired in the United States—and the first announced H-bomb type test here—sprayed dirt thousands of feet above the desert floor today.

Touched off at 10 a.m. 50 feet under the surface of Yucca Flat, in a test of peaceful use of atomic energy to make harbors and canals, it:

Flashed brilliantly, visible in the bright daylight.

Sent a cone shaped spray of rocks' sand and dust jetting skyward, up to 7,000 feet in the opinion of witnesses on distant mountain tops.

Kicked a huge mushroom cloud to 30,000 feet or more.

The force was 100 kilotons, equal to the wallop of 100,000 tons of TNT. Previous most powerful shot was 74.3 kilotons from a device fired from a balloon in 1957.

The blast was expected to scoop a huge shallow hole, a third of a mile across and 300 feet deep, in the floor of the atomic test site 5 miles north of Las Vegas.

The test site was closed to unofficial observers and newsmen had to look on from the mountains rimming the area.

The explosion, dubbed Project Sedan, marked the first time the Atomic Energy Commission has disclosed the nuclear composition of a shot here.

Previous tests have been presumed to be of the conventional fission type material, which uses uranium as the source material. H-bombs employ a process known as fusion, and heavy hydrogen is the source material. H-bomb type explosions are cleaner, in that they have less radioactive fallout. A substantial part of their radioactivity comes from fission type explosives used to trigger the fusion process.

The shot also was the first to be announced in advance since testing resumed here last September, after a moratorium in 1958. There have been 41 announced underground tests in Nevada since the resumption.

Aerial testing is set to resume Saturday with the detonation of a low-power device just a few feet above ground. It will be the first above-ground test since Oct. 30, 1958.

The new flurry of activity at this desert proving ground coincided with the recent resumption of testing in the Pacific and with announcement of plans to lob a dummy warhead 7,000 miles into the Philippine Sea from Vandenberg Air Force Base next week.

Although there has been no official announcement, military-minded observers linked the coin-

McMath to Start Telecast Series

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Former Gov. Sid McMath will begin a series of 18 nightly statewide telecasts July 9, his headquarters announced today. The five-minute telecasts will be carried at 10:15 every night but Sunday during the last three weeks of the Democratic primary campaign.

The series will be entitled "Today with Sid McMath." All but a few are expected to be "live." McMath's headquarters said on days his campaign schedule does not permit him to return to Little Rock, his talks will be recorded on video tape. Topics for the talks will be political developments during the day—including television speeches by other candidates—letters from voters and news covered by the news media. His headquarters said he also would have a full schedule of 30-minute television addresses in which he will cover the major issues in the campaign.

Researchers Contradict Findings

WASHINGTON (AP)—Four Arkansas researchers have contradicted findings of other scientists on speed of stratospheric fallout from American British and Soviet nuclear weapons.

The report of the four, which maintains that fallout from American and British comes down just as fast as that of Soviet tests, was made in the Technical Journal of Science. The four men are P. K. Kuroda, H. L. Hodges, L. M. Fry and H. E. Moore, all of the University of Arkansas.

They said a new analysis of fallout in rainfall during the period from 1958 through 1960 indicates that the average residence time in the stratosphere of radioactive strontium produced by nuclear blasts is only 8.4 months—plus or minus 1.4 months—no matter where in the world the tests are conducted.

Some American scientists have maintained that fallout from Soviet tests, set off in the Polar regions, and British tests, made in equatorial regions, takes anywhere from one to 10 years to come down. Differences between polar and equatorial air currents accounted for the time difference, earlier estimate held.

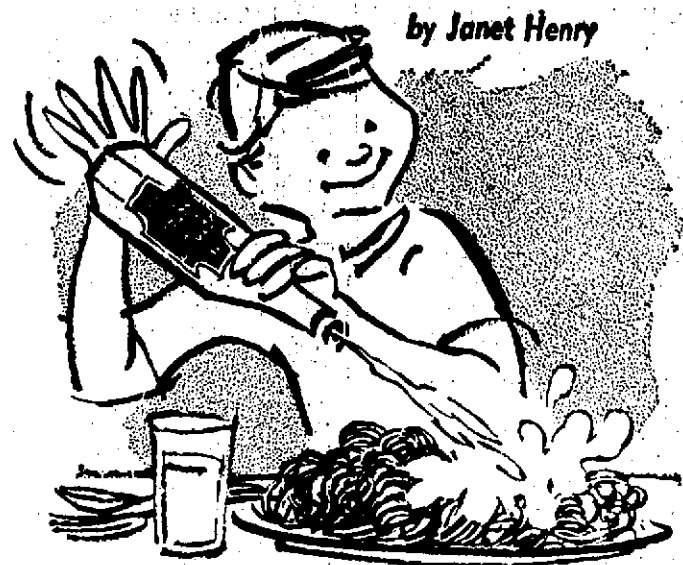

The four scientists said they measured strontium-90 concentrations in all rainfall that occurred in Fayetteville during the 1958-1960 period.

In contrast to the recent bouffant hairdos, the new Marlenbad look is molded to the head, eliminating the need for harmful teasing. For a soft interpretation of this sleek hairstyle, large rollers are used for body. For the top back, rollers are turned under (left), and neck curls set loosely toward the face. On sides and crown, rollers are placed from right to left in one direction. Side curls are swept up and away from the face (center). When dry, the hair is thoroughly brushed to make it supple, then brushed across the forehead for a straight, flat look (right). The side hair is brought back over the ears, then down and around the lobes in a shell-like guiche curl. This style was originally created for a European film actress.

DOROTHY DIX Secretly Married Girl at Crossroads

By HELEN WORDEN ERSKINE

Dear Helen: I have always thought very highly of you but never had the courage to write for fear my mother would read the letters, as she reads all my mail. My problem is long, complicated and confusing.

Three years ago I met a great guy and we started going steady (I was just 15). He and my mother got along fine. Then, all of a sudden, she forbade me to date him. Socially ambitious, money is her god. Besides being poor, this boy was born on the wrong side of the railroad tracks.

Six months passed and then I read in the paper that he got hurt in an accident and hurried to the hospital. We cried at sight of one another. It took something hard like that to show us, "This was it." When he recovered, we dated once in awhile secretly and hated it for we were proud of our love. But I feared my folks would kill him and me to — they are that hot-headed and so kept quiet.

Mama was forever arranging dates for me with rich boys; one had plenty of social position and money but no brains. The others just had money. I stayed in my room rather than go out with them. On my 18th birthday I eloped with my boy friend. We got as far as a marriage license and talking to the minister when my relatives caught up with us.

Since then they police my every move.

However, I did manage to give them the slip once. My boy friend was waiting. We hurried to the minister's and were married.

My family think I spent the evening with a girl friend and gave me holy hell for doing that. Now I'm at the crossroads. We could flee but my husband wants to clean up his bills and that takes time. Besides, I've got a job which pays well and there is a chance of advancement. I haven't seen him since we married, after a tense, rushed hour in which we consummated our marriage, I went straight home.

My mother still says this boy is a no-good because he is not of my faith and has neither family nor money. I intend to join his church because in talking to his minister — the one who married us — I've found peace, strength and contentment. We want to be together as man and wife; to share happiness and sorrow; to help and care for each other and, God willing, raise a family. In my state I'm still a minor. What can we do? —Frantic

Dear Frantic: Ask the minister who married you to intervene with your family. But before he sees him, it might be wise to establish a home with your husband, if it is only one room. Since you are earning money, even if he isn't, this shouldn't be too difficult. You've chosen a rough road but your love, if strong enough, may soften the bumps. Yours is an illustration of the tragedy of lack of communication between parents and child.

Dear Helen: Here is where we need your good advice — without stirring up too much excitement. We have an acquaintance living out of town who frequently stays the night at our home. When leaving, she has fallen into the habit of helping herself to the food and canned goods from our refrigerator and pantry. Otherwise, she's not a bad sort. My husband and I, being timid souls, lack the nerve to tell her not to come back. —K.L.

Dear K.L.: If you think enough of this woman to let her stay the night in your home, it shouldn't be too difficult to communicate with her. If she is insensitive enough to be a moocher, nothing less than the plain, unvarnished truth will penetrate. Tell her in words of one syllable that you

Urgan Grant to Pine Bluff

WASHINGTON (AP)—A $25,000 grant to Pine Bluff, Ark., to determine whether urban renewal projects in the area are feasible was announced Wednesday by the Urban Renewal Administration.

The agency said the study area covers about 25 city blocks near the central business district containing mostly deteriorating business and residential structures. One facet of the study will be methods of dealing with a large drainage ditch which bisects the area.

The agency said that if urban renewal is determined to be feasible, it is expected that Pine Bluff will apply for federal funds to undertake survey and planning activities for specific projects.

and your husband are not running a welfare agency.

Dear Helen: The kids in our town throw a party every Friday night. Lately we've just been sitting around talking and that's no fun. If we were in a city we could go in a group to a show or bowling, but living as we do in the country, this is impossible. Our only form of public entertainment is a church social twice a year. Could you suggest different games or something? Our parties include boys and girls from 17 to 24 — a dangerous age at which to have nothing to do. —All the Kids, Mendon, Utah

Dear Kids: Even the best party becomes old hat, if held too often. Instead of once a week, throw yours once a month and make it an occasion — something to look forward to. One night it might be a hay ride party with special refreshments—there must be some good cooks among you girls. Another evening it could be a barn dance. Surely there is a musician or two among the boys. For still another party you could stage an amateur night and give everybody a chance to perform. Make the most of the out-of-doors while the warm weather lasts; using porch, lawn or barn for a setting.

Send your problem to Helen Worden Erskine. Be sure to enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope and address her care of this newspaper. Helpful leaflets available. Write for "The Petting Problem."

More Trouble for Newsman at Morrilton

MORRILTON, Ark. (AP)—Gene Wirges, editor and publisher of the Morrilton Democrat, still has his paper today but the Conway County situation grew more confusing Thursday after its sale by auction was halted.

The hectic proceedings of the last few days were reviewed by Wirges Thursday night, who remarked: "What will come next, God only knows."

Several benefactors lifted the Democrat from the auction block Thursday with a $528.45 payment of court costs Wirges owed. Dr. Stanley C. Gutowski of Perryville paid $11,399 to take a judgment, which led to a court order to sell the paper at auction, off Wirges' hands Wednesday.

Thursday afternoon, however, Internal Revenue Service agents filed a notice of levy on Sheriff Marlin Hawkins, who also is county collector.

The IRS claims it has tax liens against Wirges dating back to September, 1960, and that these take precedence over the judgment Wirges owed to Rex Paul of Greenville, Miss., formerly of Jacksonville.

Fred W. Johnson, district director of the IRS at Little Rock, said Thursday the liens were for withholding taxes, income and social security taxes which Wirges withheld for the government from his employees.

The IRS understood, Johnson said, that the judgment would be paid to the court and the IRS filed the notice to establish its claim with the court.

But Gutowski did not pay the court. He simply bought the judgment with a cashier's check made out to Paul, and Paul's attorney, Charles H. Eddy of Morrilton.

Johnson said "the judge will decide whether we have a valid claim."

The IRS claims the liens amount to $7,983.76.

Wirges said he had made an agreement with the IRS to pay the back taxes over a period. Johnson said such an agreement did exist once with Wirges, "but we do not have any formal payment agreement with him now."

Since Gutowski paid off the judgment, Wirges said, hundreds of persons have called or visited him to offer oral and financial support. It was that support, Wirges said, that took his paper off the auction block early Thursday morning.

The auction was set for 9 a.m. Thursday before Gutowski paid the judgment. Then, Wirges said, Hawkins told him early Thursday morning that unless court costs were paid the sheriff would go ahead with the sale.

The U. S. Army national guard attained the highest degree of mobilization readiness in history during fiscal 1961, according to the 1962 Britannica Book of the Year.

Royce Weisenberger For Chancellor

Dear Fellow Citizens:

I am, and my wife and sons are, so pleased with the help and encouragement so many of you have given us in my campaign for Chancellor. In all distant areas of the Sixth Chancery District (Howard, Pike, Clark, Nevada, Miller, Little River, Sevier, Polk, and Hempstead Counties) people tell me of good words spoken to them in my behalf by persons living in the Hope trade area. These kindly recommendations, spoken or written, mean much in a district race like Chancellor. I deeply appreciate your help and that of all other persons in the District. Please continue your efforts until July 31.

I am grateful for the kindnesses being shown my wife and sons as they continue to work hard in the campaign. The boys have been warmly received throughout the District. I am campaigning every minute I can spare from my duties as your prosecuting attorney.

I appreciate your understanding of my being gone so much, even missing meetings in our immediate area which I wanted so much to attend. Many of you have told me "keep seeing the people that don't know you" and "we understand your being gone. Keep it up as we want you to win." Thank you all; but I will never forget that tremendous factors in my being elected prosecuting attorney four years ago were the almost 5 to 1 majority Hempstead County gave me over both other candidates and the 2 to 1 majority over both that Nevada County gave me. My heart warms every time I think of this. There is no substitute for local area support in a district race. I thank every one of you for your active support, your understanding and your encouragement. Please keep it up until July 31.

In return I promise to make you a hard working, impartial, and understanding Judge of your Chancery and Probate Courts, not obligated to or representing any particular individuals, groups or classes of people.

Sincerely yours,
Royce Weisenberger

Please listen on KXAR July 7 at 8:05 A. M. or 12:10 noon and on Monday, July 9 at 6:45 A. M. or 5:45 A. M.

Profests Time Cut

Editor The Star: Last Saturday morning, June 30, I was among the candidates invited to make a speech at Arkla Village in connection with the gubernatorial election.

Before the speech I made arrangements with the manager of Arkla Village on how long I would need to cover the subject of the issue. When I took my time to speak, after I had introduced myself as a candidate for state representative, the master of ceremonies, who is a Democratic officeholder, told me that I would have only two minutes to deliver my speech - which would have required five minutes, as had been arranged.

The subject, "Arkansas Progress, and Why We Haven't Made More Progress," it was not possible to cover completely. I feel that the job as a state representative would cover a state-wide level as well as the county and district level. Other candidates on the district-level were given all the time they wanted to speak on their issues immediately after my turn.

This is not fair at all. The subject I was speaking about "Arkansas Progress," dealt largely with schools and economic progress in our state. Suggestions had been given me for my speech by distinguished citizens on how we can investigate and profit from experience in successful programs by neighboring states, including Mississippi.

GRANDISON D. ROYSTON, JR. Candidate for State Representative Two-Party System July 3, 1962 Hope, Arkansas

Rice Sales Are Probed in Texas

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Agriculture Department and the FBI are investigating alleged sales of rice planting allotments in several Texas counties.

An Agriculture Department spokesman said today that two of the department's county office managers in Texas have been suspended.

A team of Agriculture Department investigators and auditors are now in Texas checking the books, the spokesman said, and the FBI is looking into possible criminal aspects of the case.

Although the rice case is somewhat similar to the one involving Billie Sol Estes in regard to transfers of cotton allotments, the Agriculture Department spokesman said, Estes is not involved in the rice case. Estes, a Pecos, Tex., financier, is under indictment for fraud, and two congressional committees are checking into that case.

The rice affair became known to the department on June 7, four days after the death of Carl E. Lively, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee manager in Matagorda County.

The FBI was called into the case on June 8 to investigate all cidences with this nation's current show of force in the Far East. Today's blast, which the AEC described as "in the 100-kiloton range," ostensibly had a peaceful goal—demonstrating how nuclear explosions eventually can gouge out new harbors and canals at a fraction of the cost of today's best earth-moving equipment.

Saturday's detonation is frankly military in nature and shrouded in secrecy. All the AEC would say is that it will be a low-yield device of under 20 kilotons—equal to less than 20,000 tons of TNT—and that it will be exploded a few feet above the ground.

Neither shot was open to news-men. Because of its peaceful nature, the AEC was permitted to give more details about today's device.

Installed at the bottom of a 50-foot-deep shaft, it was designed to blast out a crater 1,200 to 1,400 feet across and 170 to 300 feet deep, depending on the effect the powerful explosive has on the surrounding soil.

The shaft was sunk in a flatland of desert alluvium, a mixture of volcanic ash, rock and sand that fills the valleys between the barren mountains of Nevada.

The research effort, known as Project Sedan, is part of the plowshare program leading to gigantic excavations not now economically feasible.

One of the prime drawbacks to large-scale nuclear excavations—radioactive fallout—was engineered out of today's shot, the AEC said.

By placing the device at the proper depth, scientists figure the crater would be wide enough so that most of the rubble would fall back into the hole to filter escaping radioactive debris.

As a result, the AEC figured, about 95 per cent of the radioactive activity would be trapped underground and most of the remaining amount deposited close to the crater and within the test site.

Gov. Comes

Meet him in a debate. He has the candidates invited to make a speech at Arkla Village in connection with the gubernatorial election.

Thursday night, he said, "Meet me in a public debate and explain why the dead to Truman Baker was not reelected until Nov. 26, 1958 when the sale was executed April 14, 1960."

McMath said the ESD decided last at the time of the sale of the army and had to pay land and erect a new building at taxpayer expense when the sale of the army at a more reasonable price would have been a part of the cost.

McMath said the Faubus administration is not invincible and defeat of the proposed $60 million bond issue last fall proves it.

At a talk in Newport, McMath said when he was governor he set forth a "mandate to build roads in Jackson county."

He said if he is elected he hopes to have paved roads on all school bus and mail routes.

He charged that Faubus has let $21 million in state and federal funds go by without use in the last seven years.

Coffelt stopped in Perryville to congratulate Dr. Stanley Gutowski for his action in preventing auction of the Morrilton Democrat, Gutowski, a stranger to Gene Wirges, owner of the newspaper, said he stepped in to prevent the publication from coming under "general boss rule."

Coffelt suggested that Gutowski, a Republican candidate for representative from Perry county, might make a good speaker of the House.

In other political action Thursday, the Arkansas Education Association said Faubus will endorse its proposed constitutional amendment on teacher retirement.

Bland issued a statement for Faubus disputing charges by McMath that there are now 52,000 fewer jobs in the state than when he was governor.

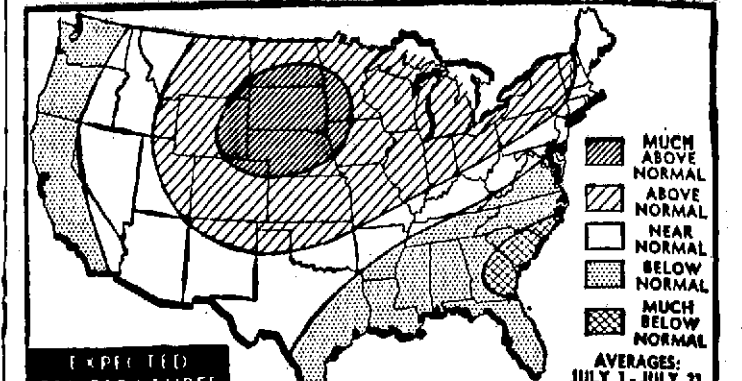

Bland, on leave to help Faubus campaign, said the high employment point under McMath was 242,338 for all occupations. Last October, he said, it was 288,971.

Work on Highway

BRINKLEY, Ark. (AP)—A work order has been issued for improvements on 3.2 miles of state Highway 238 in Monroe County, the state Highway Department said Wednesday. The $183,000 project, which will include a new 72-foot long bridge, will begin at the junction with state Highway 39 south of Brinkley and extend eastward on the Garrett Grove Road.

phases, including the possibility of attempted bribery.

The spokesman said the office managers of Matagorda and Brazoria counties had an arrangement to transfer rice allotments between the counties. Under this when a transfer was made from one county, it would not be subtracted from that county's total allotment. This would result in allotments for more rice acres than the counties were legally entitled to.

Below-normal temperatures will prevail along the Pacific Coast and in southeast quarter of the U.S. during July.

Wide belt of moderate precipitation separates extremes, which are cater-cornered in the nation for month of July.

THE LEGACY

By D. J. MADLER

The bright sun of late spring smiled warmly on Ken and Norma as they drove up the bumpy road, lined with lilac bushes, to the sprawling farmhouse. Ken took advantage of a patch of cool shade under a big oak to pull the car off the path.

Norma, in the excitement of meeting his family, felt as if she were looking at a brand new world. It was an understandable impression for a city girl accustomed to rubbing shoulders with cold skyscrapers.

Ken saw the hope in her face, and could hardly wait until his family had a good look at the young lady he intended to marry. His folks hadn't said much about it, but they could tell Ken was serious, and Grandmother knew.

Long ago Ken had learned that for dreams to come true, they must first mean a lot to the family. His older brother Ted, never had that trouble. Ted could do anything, make anything or break anything. Like the day Ted broke Ken's toy fire engine, a gift from Grandmother, years ago. It was okay with the family because Ted was "only learning." But Ted never learned how to put that fire engine back together, and Ken kept its pieces in a cigar box in an empty dresser drawer for years and years.

Norma stood on the wet grass now, beneath a big oak and fluffed out her pale green skirt. The breeze blew her long Auburn hair in wisps around her face.

He took her hand as they walked through the noisy gate in a wooden fence that would soon be sighing under the weight of red raspberries. The yard was ankle deep with clover. Bug-eyed robins scanned the place for the mid-morning snack. This was the clean, open world Norma longed for.

The screen door swung out with a shrill squeak, and then the porch was crowded to the rails with people, all taking at once and shaking Norma's hand. The girl's stage fright appeared momentarily. Then she heard her voice making sensible cordialities in return.

Eventually everyone filed into the bleakness of an overdone living room. For Norma a cloud rolled over the sun. A bellowing uncle explained the massive library table and breakfast had belonged to a now-dead aunt. "God rest her soul," he added.

The equally over-powering upright piano, complete with garish carvings, uncle had transported to the farm himself. He neighed boastfully, "Gives a house culture. I turned down an offer of a hundred smackers for it."

When she handed Ken the ring, he'd understand. He'd even think for a time about breaking his family ties. But in the end, his dresser drawer would wonder at its shiny treasure.

Norma knew. Being a big city girl, she knew. And it made the difference. Their ride back to the cold-shouldered skyscrapers wouldn't be one of arguments. It would be quiet.

When she handed Ken the ring, he'd understand. He'd even think for a time about breaking his family ties. But in the end, his dresser drawer would wonder at its shiny treasure.

The End

Rice is the staple food for nearly one-half of the human race and more than 150 million tons of it is consumed annually.

BATTING—Rocky Colavito, Tigers, became second player this season to hit three homers, driving in five runs with homers in fourth, fifth and seventh innings of 7-6 loss to Cleveland.

PITCHING — Al McBean, Pi-and walked only one for 5-0 victory.

edge over second-place San Francisco to 1½ games by walloping the Giants 11-3 and Pittsburgh blanked Philadelphia 5-0 in the only games on an abbreviated schedule.

Dillard, 25, entered the Indians line-up Thursday when Luplow collapsed with a pulled muscle after making a spectacular running catch of Bill Bruton's drive in the fifth inning. He failed to get a hit his first time up, but in the ninth he tagged a Run Kline (1-3) pitch to snap a tie brought about by Colavito's trio of circuit shots.

The White Sox built a 4-1 lead against Jack Fisher by the fourth inning, but could get only one hit thereafter against Hal Brown and Wes Stock. Brandt made it 4-2 with a homer in the seventh, then doubled to drive home the clincher in a three-run, eighth-inning rally after Gentile knocked in a pair with a bases-loaded single.

The victory went to Brown (4-2) while Frank Baumann (1-3) took the loss.

Tragedy Strikes Deer Herd

Arkansas game management authorities say that in some areas of the state there are too many deer for their own good. They propose an increased harvest, especially of does which, we are advised are extremely out of balance to the number of bucks.

These same managers condemn the free-running dog. They say he is an enemy to the deer — that he cuts down on the population—and should be eliminated.

Question: Why, if there is an over population of deer, make so much fuss about the dogs? Good question. Is there a good answer?
Yes, there is.

But first, let's answer this question. What is the objective of deer management? Answer: "To provide for the hunter the most deer possible and still maintain a good healthy herd." The most deer for the hunter!

If a single deer which could be harvested by the hunter is taken by anything (disease, starvation, bobcats, dogs) but the hunter; as far as management is concerned, that is waste.

Now, let's go to another phase of this subject — deer populations.
Most everyone agrees that there is not an over population of deer in all parts of Arkansas. Not by any means.

In fact, it is likely that we have more acreage with shortage of deer than with too many. At the same time, however, let us not forget carrying capacity — some range will naturally support more deer than others.

Let's build a hypothetical case with these two conditions — too many deer and a scarcity of deer.
First, the area where there is an over population. Let a pack of dogs run loose the year 'round.
They chase does heavy with fawns and they catch and kill a few.

Let's assume the total loss is 50 deer — direct mortality and later effects. But even with the loss of the 50, we still have left an over population. Or, let's suppose the reduction of 50 brought the number of deer into proper balance — that would even be giving the dogs some credit.

Now, let's take that same area.
Instead of letting dogs run loose, permit the hunters to take the extra 50 deer? Which is better — destruction by dogs or harvest by hunters?

Of course, if the hunter is not permitted the extra deer and the dogs are allowed to take them, it

Houk Adds 17 to All Star Roster

MINNEAPOLIS-ST. PAUL (AP)
—Manager Ralph Houk completed selection of the American League all-stars today and ducked for cover.

The Yankee pilot added 17 players to the front line squad of eight who will meet the National League stars in Washington next Tuesday, naming eight pitchers and nine alternate infielders, outfielders and catchers.

Houk, like his National League counterpart Fred Hutchinson for the rest of the squad, naming the second choices at each position and adding his own catcher, Elston Howard, who finished third

Dodgers Slug It Out With Giants 11-3

By JIM HACKLEMAN

Associated Press Sports Writer
It's their usual style to dazzle
the National League opposition with speed and footwork. But for a change of pace, the streaking
Los Angeles Dodgers can slug away with a heavyweight punch.

They rolled to an 11-3 romp Thursday in the opener of the four-game series at San Francisco to boost their lead over the Giants to a game and a half.

Don Drysdale, Dodger speedballer, quelled the Giant batters on eight hits and won his 15th.
Tommy Davis, Frank Howard,
Ron Fairley and Willie Davis counted four homers among their total of nine hits.

In the NL's only other game,
Alvin McBean threw a six-hitter as Pittsburgh blanked Philadelphia 5-0.

In the American League, Cleveland edged Detroit 7-6 and moved into a first-place tie with Los Angeles. Baltimore rallied for a 5-4 decision over Chicago in the only other game played.

The Dodgers clipped left-hander Mike McCormick for their four homers and six of their runs in the first five innings, then continued the rout against relievers Jim Duffalo and Don Larsen.

The Pirates rapped Jim Owens for all five of their runs in the first two innings. Dick Groat got his first homer of the year.

McBean, now 8-5, doled out six singles and one walk.
